

U.S. DEMANDS FREEDOM OF THE DARDANELLES

COLD AND SNOW GRIP STATES; SOUTH HIT

CHICAGO, December 6.—(By the Associated Press)—Still holding the northwest in a chilling grip of sub-zero temperature, winter continued its belated advance today into the south land, causing marked drops in temperature as far south as Texas, and calling forth predictions of cold weather in the lake region, the great central valleys and the east gulf states.

In the upper lake region, the zero and sub-zero weather was accompanied by a sixty mile wind driving before it a snow storm that virtually tied up shipping.

North Dakota, Montana, Hard Hit
Reports indicated that the cold was still centered in North Dakota and Montana. Havre, Montana, and Williston, N. D., recorded the coldest temperatures in the country last night, the mercury going past six in low zero.

The east did not suffer from the unusual cold prevalent in the northwest, temperatures there ranging from 26 to 70 degrees above zero. Heat summer weather in Texas early today gave way to the first breath of winter, the thermometer dropping several degrees throughout the state.

Rocky Mountain Region Visited
The cold wave still obtained in the northern portion of the Rocky Mountain region with a prediction of rain or snow and cooler weather supplanting the mild weather that had prevailed in the Southern Rocky Mountain region for the past few days.

South Expected To Feel Blast
New Orleans today awaited the predicted arrival of the cold wave expected to cause the thermometer to capitate from 80 degrees, yesterday's high mark, to 60 or 65 degrees. Georgia also was forecast to be visited by the cold wave with a resultant drop in temperature to below freezing. Temperatures in the Pacific states early today ranged from 39 to 58 degrees; the east central states showed variations from 14 to 36 degrees above; the gulf states reported temperatures from 54 to 74 degrees and readings in the west central states ranged from four degrees below zero at Devil's Lake, Wisconsin, to 36 degrees above, at Dodge City, Kansas.

Heavy Fall Of Snow
Three inches of snow were on the ground at Seattle, after a storm which began Sunday over Western Washington, was halted by rain and resumed yesterday with vigor.
At Gray's Harbor six inches of snow were reported, and it was feared logging camps would have to close. From Port Angeles, on the Olympic Peninsula, word that a blinding snow storm was forcing search for Charles Hart, convicted of murder who escaped from jail Saturday night, was in progress. Heavy snowfall was reported from all parts of Oregon today. Hood River, the Dalles and Medford, having from nine inches to two feet.

Heavy Fines, Jail Sentences, Trips Thru Morgues And Hospitals Curbing Reckless Auto Driving

CHICAGO, December 6.—(By the Associated Press)—Heavier fines, jail sentences and trips through morgues and hospitals to view dead and injured victims of reckless automobilists, are becoming effective curbs in many parts of the middle and far west, a digest from the report of several states show.

Fines alone, the reports indicate, are not effective. In Chicago and Cook county, despite increasingly heavy fines, the death toll in auto accidents for the fiscal year ended November 30, was 136, as compared with 660 last year and 542 the year before. There were 75 automobile deaths in November of this year.

In Louisville, where 41 persons were killed by automobiles in the first eleven months of the year, fines also have failed, officials say. One police judge there imposes fines of $20 for each mile per hour on speeders and adds jail sentences if the prisoner was intoxicated.

Detroit Judge Has Drastic Plan
A successful campaign was launched at Detroit, more than a year ago when Judge Charles L. Bartlett began sending speeders to jail for terms of one to fifteen days. Among those sentenced was John Duval Dodge, wealthy young man, who served five days.

But speeding returned to Detroit and Judge Bartlett began conducting offenders through the morgues and hospitals to see the results of speeding. Arrests the week after the trips started dropped from 76 to 25.

In Cincinnati, jail sentences have been invoked and in some cases drivers' licenses revoked. Cleveland Judges Give Stiff Punishment.

Cleveland, with 116 deaths and 2,386 injuries in traffic accidents up to the middle of November, is employing work house sentences and morgue and hospital visits, as well as fines.

In Des Moines, Police Chief John Hammond has ordered intoxicated drivers held without bail, while judges are adding jail sentences in many cases to heavy fines.

Judge George E. Mix, of St. Louis, who assesses fines as high as $300, has added a traffic law school to his court.

In Indiana, the secretary of state, has revoked six autoists' licenses on recommendation of courts and has promised to continue his co-operation.

Judge Delbert Wilmet, of the Indianapolis court, has added jail sentences to fines on third convictions.

Kansas City has had occasional heavy fines or jail sentences, but no continued campaign against speeders. Police take license numbers of traffic law violators and on the third violation a fine of $25 is imposed.

Taken To Hospitals
Judge W. F. Wappick, of Omaha, takes groups of speeders to hospitals in the police patrol to see their victims and then assesses fines.

Judge Sylvester J. McAtee, of San Francisco, recently sentenced a speeder to sixty days in jail and announced he would continue a drastic campaign against traffic law violators.

MINERS AND OPERATORS OPEN WAGE PARLEY

CHICAGO, December 6.—(By the Associated Press)—Negotiations were re-opened today between soft coal operators, representing the nation's union output, and a delegation of miners for the purpose of agreeing on some method of drafting a wage scale for the miners next January.

Casting aside sectional differences, the operators were reported to have agreed on a plan to present to the miners for approval.

Today's meeting will be the second joint conference between the operators and the miners. The first was adjourned without an agreement. As reported, the plan would provide for district agreements, arranged to permit a possible return to the old central competitive field base; an impartial tribunal to settle disputes and a sliding wage scale to replace the fixed, and uniform scale now in effect.

Unless some method for negotiating a scale is agreed upon, operators said they saw little hope of the January meeting averting a coal strike next April.

Bissagno, a bachelor club man was a familiar figure in San Francisco for many years. Many of the physicians remembered in his will he saw but once in his life time.

Turkey Has Change Of Heart On Dardanelles

LAUSANNE, December 6.—(By the United Press)—Ambassador Richard Washburn Child, America's observing delegate at the Near East conference arose this morning upon the assembling of the delegates and declared that America wished the right to send warships anywhere it desired. Therefore, he demanded complete freedom of the Dardanelles, both for merchant ships and war vessels. America would never accept the Russian plan for the Dardanelles, Ambassador Child told the delegates.

She would not agree to the exclusion of all warships from the Black Sea, he said.

In face of an apparent alliance between Turkey and Russia the allies have agreed to bury their differences and stand together on the question of the Dardanelles. The British were willing to accept conditional freedom of the straits for warships provided Turkey would not erect fortifications. To what extent warships are to be subjected to commission of control, was to be stated today at conclusion of next session of parley. The Turks were to be given the presidency of the control commission with two votes with hope that they would abandon extreme views of the Russians. As a result of allied agreement a more optimistic feeling prevailed today in conference circles.

Plan To Keep Open Straits
LAUSANNE, December 6.—(By the Associated Press)—The Entente plan for keeping open the straits of the Dardanelles and Bosphorus in times of peace and war, provides for the appointment of an international commission of control composed of United States as well as Turkey and the countries bordering on the Black Sea.

Lord Curzon of Great Britain in the name of the allies, presented the details of this comprehensive project to the Near East conference today. A change of front on the part of the Turkish delegates was forecast, while the conference was in session. A Turkish spokesman outside the auditorium said the Turkish position on the straits control would probably be found nearer to the allied plan than to the Russian.

The Turks it appeared had suddenly realized that the Russian plan for control by Turkish warships would force Turkey to build a navy. Hence doubts had arisen in the minds of the Turkish delegates who seemed more disposed to negotiate a scheme for neutralization of the straits and the Black Sea with some form of international control.

Woman Ponzi Faces Sentence In Reformatory

POMEROY, O., December 6.—(By the Associated Press)—Mrs. Susan Kraus, 63, whose alleged embezzlement of the financial operations of Charles Ponzi, is said to have netted her and her family more than $300,000, today faced a one to twenty-year sentence in the Marysville Reformatory. A jury last night found her guilty of uttering and publishing a forged document.

One Day Trial
Only one day was required for the submission of evidence and the pleas of attorneys, and the jury returned the verdict shortly after eleven o'clock last night after a little more than six hours deliberation.

Sentence was not passed and it was indicated that Judge Miller would not take action for several days.

Mrs. Kraus was charged in the indictment upon which she was tried, with having forged the name of her son, Michael Kraus, to a note for $20,000 given to Miss Lizzie Soyars. Her defense was that her son had given her permission to use his signature, but he declared from the witness stand that he did not remember authorizing the use of his name.

Mostly Women Heard Verdict
The case has attracted much attention during the past several months, and several hundred persons, mostly women, heard the jury render the verdict which was received calmly by Mrs. Kraus. She still faces five other indictments charging forgery, and one charging embezzlement.

George Kraus, Sr., her husband, will go on trial December 14, charged with embezzlement in connection with the financial dealings of the family which are said to have resulted in the loss of thousands of dollars by many local citizens, George Kraus, Jr., and Michael Kraus, two sons, also are under indictment.

Six Killed In Collision Of Airplanes In Virginia

NEWPORT NEWS, VA., December 6.—(By the Associated Press)—Major Guy L. Gearhart, of Leavenworth, Kas., Captain A. Doyle, of St. Louis, Mo., and four enlisted men were killed at Langley Field today when a Martin bombing plane carrying five of them and a Fokker scouting machine piloted by Major Gearhart collided about 250 feet in the air, both machines crashing to earth in flames.

The enlisted men killed were: Staff Sergeant Marston, 3395 West 41 street, Cleveland.
Private F. J. Blunka, 1018 Fry street, Chicago.
Private Thomas Jordan, Deep River, Georgia.
Private Leon Holas, 416 North Fourth street, Philadelphia.

The bomber, piloted by Captain Doyle was leading a formation and was making a banking when the Fokker arose in the air from a long take off. The smaller machine struck the bomber almost amidship, cutting off the tail. Both planes hovered a moment then both broke in flames and crashed to earth.

Private Holas leaped from the bomber as it neared the earth, but was fatally injured. He died while being placed in an ambulance.

The others were pinned beneath the two machines and before aid could reach them their bodies were burned almost beyond recognition.

NO TRACE OF “HAMMER MURDERESS”

LOS ANGELES, CAL., December 6.—(By the United Press)—Fear that Clara Phillips, “hammer murderess,” who broke jail here Tuesday was kidnapped by enemies and perhaps killed, was expressed today by her husband, Friends of Mrs. Albert Meadows, who was slain, by Mrs. Phillips, lured the prisoner through the jail window on promise of helping her to escape and then perhaps murdered her according to the theory Phillips unfolded to police. She was threatened many times during the trial, he declared.

Peggy Caffee, chief witness against Mrs. Phillips in her trial was found in Long Beach today by deputy sheriffs. Mrs. Caffee disappeared at the time of Mrs. Phillips' escape from jail Tuesday.

“I believe I saw Mrs. Phillips on the streets of Long Beach yesterday at noon,” she said. Mrs. Caffee was in a high state of nervous excitement. Officers believe that she was not struck by the terrifying knowledge of Mrs. Phillips' escape and that the woman she saw beat another to death with a hammer might be seeking revenge.

Rumors that Mrs. Phillips may have escaped by airplane were strengthened by reports that two planes of unknown identity were seen flying across San Diego mountains into Mexico. It was considered possible the hunted “hammer murderess” was in one of these planes.

LOS ANGELES, CAL., December 6.—(By the Associated Press)—The search for Mrs. Clara Phillips, convicted of beating Mrs. Albert Meadows to death with a hammer, and who escaped early yesterday, from the Los Angeles county jail, was in active progress today throughout Southern California and Lower California, the Mexican state.

Believe She's In Mexico
Despite various other “tips” and “clues,” sheriff's deputies, generally held to their original belief that the “hammer murderess” had fled across the border into Mexico, and plans were made to extend the search today for her as far south as Ensenada on the west coast of the Lower California.

Truck Hits Fence; Driver Hurt

Averil Williams, 31, had three ribs on his right side broken and had a narrow escape from death last night when a truck, driven by him, struck a fence and ploughed its way back into the machine. Fortunately, the driver was not injured. The truck, owned by Williams, was turning the truck around at Union Mills when the accident occurred. He did not turn the machine sharp enough and it struck the heavy fence along the edge of the towpath. One of the long boards of the fence shot through the windshield, struck Williams a glancing blow on the right side and ploughed its way back into the machine. Fortunately, the driver was not injured. The truck, owned by Williams, was turning the truck around at Union Mills when the accident occurred. He did not turn the machine him squarely in the abdomen or chest. Kinker escaped injury, the board missing him by a few inches. Williams was carried into the Andy Smith store where Dr. A. R. Moore attended him. He was in a semi-conscious condition for some time, but was much improved today. Williams is a son of George Williams of Sciotoville, and is a driver of the Panther bakery truck.

Gangrene Causes N. & W. Foreman's Death

Gangrene, which developed in a mangled toe on his left foot, resulted in the death of James G. Calvert, 41, N. & W. section foreman of Lawshe, at Hempstead hospital at 11:15 o'clock last night.

Mr. Calvert suffered a mangled toe on November 22 while unloading timber for a fill near Lawshe. While unloading some of the material from a section crew's small car, some of the material fell on his foot and injured a toe. He paid no attention to the injury at the time, but several days ago when he consulted a physician about increasing pains in his foot, it was found that blood poisoning had developed. Calvert was sent to this city yesterday morning and was taken from an N. & W. train to Hempstead hospital, where an N. & W. surgeon attended him. An examination showed that he was suffering with gangrene and that his condition was more dangerous than was first thought. About ten o'clock last night Calvert suffered a convulsion and a short time later passed away.

The deceased was married and leaves a widow, his mother and several children at Lawshe. The body was taken to Lynn's morgue and from there was sent to the home at Lawshe this morning at seven o'clock.

"Mystery Man" Solves Own Puzzle; Says He Worked In Local Hospital

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 6.—(By The United Press)—Kansas City's Mystery man solved his own puzzle today, establishing that he was Thurman Steele of Columbus, Ohio. After an attack of amnesia, Steele awoke this morning and declared his brain was clear and gave authorities intimate details of his life. Steele says he was injured while working for John Schatz and suffered losses of memory. He said he worked in a hospital at Portsmouth, Ohio, and in 1910 worked in the press room of The Index Republican at Bellfontaine, Ohio.

Records at Hempstead hospital do not contain the name of a Thurman Steele but nurses there believe the man is the patient who was known here as William McFadden and William Michaels. McFadden was found in an unconscious condition along the

C. & O. right of way near Sciotoville in October, 1921, and was removed to Hempstead hospital. He claimed to have been a patient in Walter Reed hospital at Washington. After a few days at the hospital he was able to be up and around and after twelve days there walked away from the hospital. At that time McFadden appeared to be suffering with a mental disorder.

Mrs. D. H. Rupert of Scioto Trail received a telegram today informing her of the death of her brother-in-law, Robert H. Stevenson, who died at his home in Twin Falls, Idaho, Tuesday night. He was 38 only a few days.

Mr. Stevenson was well known here for he was at one time editor of The Portsmouth Tribune, located on Gallia street, in the present Royal Savings and Loan building. He became editor of the paper after January 13, 1909, when his father-in-law, H. J. Thomas, of Manchester, and West Union became owner of the paper. He remained here for some time and about twenty years ago went West, where he remained in the newspaper business. Four years ago he was elected State Senator in Idaho.

His wife was Nettie Thomas, daughter of H. J. Thomas. The widow and a daughter, Mrs. Richard Coates, of Los Angeles, survive. Mrs. H. J. Thomas of Dayton is his mother-in-law and Frank B. Thomas of Dayton is a brother-in-law. Mr. Stevenson was a native of Georgetown, O.

Mr. Stevenson was well known here and the news of his passing away will be learned with regret. He had a very interesting newspaper career and knew all angles of the business. "Bob," as he was affectionately known by his countless friends, was a trenchant writer and was a man who kept abreast with current events. In politics he was very shrewd, and no matter where he was located he always edited a newsy and breezy paper. He was a newspaper man of the old school and was well and favorably known throughout this section. He had prospered since locating in Twin Falls.

When the original Tribune failed under the management of the late J. E. Valjean it was bought in by a company of local men, who engaged Mr. Stevenson, at that time a telegraph editor on the Cincinnati Enquirer, to become its editor. After operating it as a semi-weekly for a time, Mr. Stevenson formed a partnership with Dr. Frank H. Watkins and they re-established a morning daily edition, the paper being called the Morning Tribune. It failed in 18 months, after which Mr. Stevenson left for the West.

That's 80 dozen in 2 winter months. Not bad for 23 hens, is it? You might just as well be getting eggs like this. Here's our offer: Give Don Sang to 10 hens. Then watch results for 20 days. If it doesn't show you a big increase in egg laying, we'll pay you a good profit besides, tell us and your money will be promptly refunded. It makes egg laying easy. They scratch and dig for the eggs, lay them, and the pullets develop earlier. The whole flock lays regularly in any season, in any weather. When eggs are scarce and high, you are sure to get them. Don Sang is no trouble to use. It costs nothing to try. All we ask is a chance to prove our claim, entirely at our risk. Get Don Sang from your local dealer, or send 50 cents for package by mail prepaid (large size $1.00, 1000 weight $2.00). (Sign as much). Barrett-Dugger Co., 214 Columbia Bldg., Indianapolis, Ind.

Same Old Story

A dispute which arose over prospective "buses" alighting from an N. & W. train led to a personal encounter between J. B. Froelich and Albert Parry, connected with rival taxi companies at the N. & W. depot Tuesday night. Wednesday both appeared in municipal court to answer to charges of fighting, but the case was continued for hearing until Thursday.

Court House

In Favor Of Defendant

Judge A. Z. Blair has returned from West Union where he was engaged in the case of Minnie E. McCarty vs John A. McCarty, executor of the estate of Sarah E. Burdage. The plaintiff who was represented by Attorneys Grover C. Brown of Columbus, and C. E. Roebuck of West Union, claimed that she had done a certain amount of work for Mrs. Burdage before her death for which she had never been paid.

The defendant, who was represented by Attorney Blair, said that Mrs. Burdage had fulfilled the agreement which she had made with Mrs. McCarty, and that no further compensation was legally forthcoming.

Liquor Offenders Caught

For violating the dry law, Harry Boggs, and his son, Luther, 17, Albert Isom and John Brown were taken into custody by county officers Tuesday night at Bonser Run, back of Sciotoville, following the finding of a large quantity of mash in the process of fermentation.

The prisoners admitted guilt on being taken before Squire J. L. Ricker, who fined Boggs $1,000 and costs but suspended half while Isom was fined a penalty of $800 and Brown $500.

Young Boggs, who was arrested once before for possessing liquor, is held for the juvenile court while David Pyle, was also arrested in connection with the mash found, is held for further investigation.

Will Report Thursday

The grand jury which was convened in special session by Judge Thomas Monday morning started on the last lap of its extended inquiry into criminal matters this afternoon when Prosecutor Sheppard announced that the probers would be able to finish up their work and submit a report to the court Thursday forenoon.

Among the cases investigated Wednesday by the jury was the killing of Curtis Lykins by Roy Hall at Jackson Fork, Bloom township, a few days ago.

On the instructions of the jury Sheriff Ricker went out today and seized three slot machines, securing two owl machines at the poolroom conducted by George Shockert at Nauvoo and a penny baseball machine at the Washington hotel bar. The devices were exhibited before the jury and indictments may be brought against the parties owning them.

Damage Suit Trial On

The suit of John Mantel, 848 Third street, against Roy J. Shephard, grocer, 2370 Ninth street, went to trial before Judge Thomas and a jury in

Common Pleas court Wednesday morning

The plaintiff, who is 75 years old, claims that while walking across Third street, at Gay on the night of April 5, 1922, he was struck by the defendant's automobile and he sued for $3400 damages for personal injuries he alleges he sustained, together with loss of time and doctor bill. He charged negligence on the part of the defendant in driving at a high rate of speed and in failing to give warning of his approach to the street intersection.

The defendant admitted that his machine struck the plaintiff and that Mantel sustained some injury, but claimed that whatever injury he sustained was caused by plaintiff's own fault and negligence. He further claimed that it was raining at the time and contended that water on the windshield prevented him from seeing Mantel, who, he insisted, stopped from the curb directly into the path of the machine.

Mantel suffered a broken right leg and was otherwise injured in the accident, he claimed. He was represented by Attorneys Sherman Johnson and E. G. Miller and Attorney B. F. Kimble appeared for the defendant.

Two Jury Trials Thursday

Two jury trials will be heard in Common Pleas court Thursday, the case of S. A. Stewart against C. E. Duffel in the forenoon and the case of Carl F. Monk against Raymond Hanna in the afternoon.

Potters' Strike Fails; Return At Old Wages

EAST LIVERPOOL, December 6.—(By The Associated Press)—Pottery manufacturers in the East Liverpool district, one of the centers of the industry, today were rushing preparation for resumption of operations following settlement of the general wage strike at Pittsburgh yesterday.

President John T. Wood, of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters today issued orders to 17,000 workers to return to their benches following adjustment of differences with the United States Potters' Association at Pittsburgh last night.

Indications are that most factories will be operating not later than Monday. Workers have been idle since October 1. They go back to the factories under the old scale, according to the agreement. They sought a seven percent increase.

There was no sign of settlement of the strike of auxiliary pottery workers, who went out November 1, when manufacturers are said to have attempted to cut their wages 20 per cent. About 2,000 men are idle.

Izoria peninsula, about ninety miles south of San Diego, Calif. They were not overlooking other directions, however, and have asked San Francisco authorities to join in the hunt.

Meantime, the border between the Californias, from Tijuana, near San Diego to the Arizona line and especially at Calexico, Cal., and its Lower California neighbor, Mexicali, was being closely watched.
Mrs. Phillips' Husband In Custody
Amour Lee Phillips, the convicted woman's husband upon whose story of his movements the 24 hours preceding his wife's escape, some doubt, had been cast, according to sheriff's deputies, still was in technical custody early today.

Although not placed in jail, he was in charge of Frank Dewar, a deputy sheriff, with whom he slept and with whom he was to take his meals "until further notice," it was said.

Seek Star Witness
The exact whereabouts of Mrs. Peggy Coffey, former chum of Mrs. Phillips when they were members of the chorus of the same musical comedy company, and later star witness for the state at Mrs. Phillips' trial, was unknown to the authorities early today. They said they were interested in learning where she was merely because they wanted to be assured of her safety.

Since the escape, the sheriff's office and the police have received many reports that Mrs. Phillips had been seen at various places. One of the latest rumors, which at first was regarded with extreme hope by Sheriff Wm. I. Treger, came in a telephone call from Long Beach.

It was from a man who has held his name but gave what he said was the street number of a house where he said Mrs. Phillips was in hiding. A posse, headed by the sheriff, rushed to Long Beach, only to find there was no such address. Efforts to trace the call were begun.

Mrs. Phillips Phoned From Jail
Relatives of Mrs. Phillips expressed surprise when informed of her escape, which it was reported was planned during a telephone conversation Monday afternoon when she was permitted to use a direct line from the jail without interference from the authorities.

Later that night it was declared she feigned illness to assure herself of as much privacy as possible in fling through the bars of her cell window with files smuggled to her in some way.

Mrs. Phillips occupied a cell adjoining that of Mrs. Madeline C. Obenchain, with whom she was said to have become more or less intimate. Mrs. Obenchain was released from the jail Monday after the indictment charging her and Arthur C. Burch of Evanston, Ill., with the murder of her former sweetheart, J. Bolton Kennedy, had been dismissed.

Ireland Takes Place Among States Of The World

DUBLIN, December 6.—(By the Associated Press)—Ireland took her place today among the world's commonwealths. The provisional government and parliament ceased to function, their place being taken by the permanent parliament and cabinet of the Irish Free State and the new commonwealth being formally proclaimed as an established government. The provisional regime which existed to exist today had such full powers that the new one now inaugurated marks but little change except in name. The program of the day provided that the parliament meet at five o'clock without ceremony and after its members had taken the oath, elected a speaker and nominated a president, the order of the day called for the naming of the executive council by the president with a committee of the parliament nominating the other ministers. The arrangements amounted simply to the confirming in office of the men already there.

The president's nomination of thirty senators was a part of the day's business. The lower house elects the remaining thirty. For these senatorships there were more than 80 candidates. When the senate is constituted later in the week, both houses will be addressed by Governor General Haul in the king's speech, which will be composed, according to constitutional practice, by the Irish cabinet.

The newspapers editorially refer to the birth of the free state in a hopeful spirit. The free man's journal, remarking that the Irish Free State begins life today under a constitution of Irish manufacture, adds: "All intrigues to make trouble over the new instrument of the Irish government fell to the ground on the realization that the British parliament, despite all the supremacy claimed for it, could not change a word or phrase in an Irish-made constitution without Ireland's consent." The Irish Independent says the old and had order completely disappears with the inauguration of the new government. The Independent considers that the men who were in charge of affairs during the transitional period, although comparatively young, have shown wonderful constructive ability.

THE FORTUNE TELLER

Begin Here Today
Seated in the quiet of his Paris study, M. JONQUELLE, greatest of French detectives, reads from his father's diary the tale of a crime that took place years ago in far-off Virginia. The diary tells how the son of PEYTON MARSHALL stole his father's will, because he believed his father at his death had been strangely influenced by the Englishman, Mr. GOSFORD, and that under this influence had left Gosford all his $50,000 estate instead of keeping his promise and leaving his son $30,000. The writer of the diary recounts how his father and the lawyer, MR. LEWIS, were suspicious of Gosford. The son admits he took the will and surrenders it to the executors who are gathered in the plantation library with Gosford and the old doctor, GAELKI.

Go on With the Story CHAPTER III
It was my father who broke the silence. "Gosford," he said, "what scheme were you and Marshall about?" "You may wonder, sir," replied the Englishman, continuing to write his notes: "I shall not tell you." "But I will tell you," said the boy. "My father thought that the states in this republic could not hold together very much longer. He believed that the country would divide, and the South set up a separate government. He hoped this might come about without a war. He was in horror of a war. He had traveled; he had seen nations and read their history, and he knew what they were talking when they urged war."

He paused and looked at Gosford. "My father was convinced that the South would finally set up an independent government, but he hoped a war might not follow. He believed that if this new government were immediately recognized by Great Britain, the North would accept the inevitable and there would be no bloodshed. My father went to England with this scheme. He met Mr. Gosford somewhere—on the ship, I think. And Mr. Gosford succeeded in convincing my father that if he had a sum of money he could win over certain powerful persons in the English Government, and so pave the way to an immediate recognition of the Southern Republic by Great Britain. He followed my father home and hung about him, and so finally got his will. My father was careful; he wrote nothing; Mr. Gosford wrote nothing; there is no evidence of this plan, but my father told me, and it is true."

My father stopped by the table and lifted his great shoulders. "And so," he said, "Peyton Marshall imagined a plan like that, and left its execution to a Mr. Gosford." The Englishman put down his pen and addressed my father. "I would advise you, sir, to require a little proof for your conclusions. This is a very pretty story, but it is prefaced by an admission of no evidence, and it comes as a special pleading for a criminal act. Now, sir, if I close, if the request required it, I could give a further explanation, with more substance; of money borrowed by the decedent in his travels and to be returned to me, but the will, sir, stands for itself, as Mr. Lewis will assure you."

My father seemed brought up in a cul-de-sac. His face was tense and disturbed. He stood by the table; and now, as by accident, he put out his hand and took up the Japanese crystal supported by the necks of the three bronze storks. He appeared unconscious of the act, for he was in deep reflection. Then, as though the weight in his hand drew his attention, he glanced at the thing. Something about it struck him, for his manner changed. He spread the will out on the table and began to move the crystal over it, his face close to the glass. Presently his hand stopped, and he stood stooped over, staring into the Oriental crystal, like these practitioners of black art who predict events from what they pretend to see in these spheres of glass.

Mr. Gosford, sitting at his ease, in victory, regarded my father with a supercilious, ironical smile. "Sir," he said, "are you, by chance, a fortune-teller?" "A misfortune-teller," replied my father, his face still held above the crystal. "I see here a misfortune to Mr. Anthony Gosford. I predict, from what I see, that he will release this bequest of money to Peyton Marshall's son."

"Sir," said the Englishman, now provoked into a temper, "do you enjoy this foolery?" "You are not interested in crystal-gazing," Mr. Gosford, replied my father in a tranquil voice. "Well, I find it most diverting. Permit me to place out your fortune, or rather your misfortune, Mr. Gosford! By chance you fell in with this dreamer Marshall, wormed into his confidence, pretended a relation to great men in England; followed and persuaded him until, in his ill-health, you got his will. You saw it written two years ago. When Marshall fell ill, you hurried here, learned from the dying man that the will remained and where it was. You made sure by pretending to write letters in this room, bringing your portfolio with ink and pen and a pad of paper. Then, at Marshall's death, you inquired of Lewis for legal measures to discover the dead man's will. And when you find the room ransacked, you run after the law."

My father paused. "That is your past, Mr. Gosford. Now let me tell your future. I see you in joy at the recovered will. I see you pleased at your foresight in getting a direct bequest, and at the care you urged on Marshall to leave no evidence of his plan, lest the authorities discover it. For I see, Mr. Gosford, that it was your intention all along to keep this sum of money for your own use and pleasure. But alas, Mr. Gosford, it was not to be! I see you writing this release; and Mr. Gosford, my father's voice went up full and strong—"I see you writing it in terror—sweat on your face!"

"SIR," SAID THE ENGLISHMAN, "DO YOU ENJOY THIS FOOLERY?"

"The Devil take your nonsense," cried the Englishman.

My father stood up with a twisted, ironical smile. "If you doubt my skill, Mr. Gosford, as a fortune-teller, I will ask Mr. Lewis and Herman Gaekli to tell me what they see."

The two men crossed the room and stooped over the paper, while my father held the crystal. The manner and the bearing of the men changed. They grew on the instant tense and fired with interest.

"I see it," said the old doctor, with a queer, foreign expletive.

"And I," cried Lewis, "see something more than Pendleton's vision. I see the penitentiary in the distance."

The Englishman sprang up with an oath and leaped across the table. Then he saw the thing.

"My father's hand held the crystal above the figures of the bequest written in the body of the will. The focused lens of glass magnified to a great diameter, and under the vast enlargement a thing that would escape the eye stood out. The top curl of a figure 3 had been erased, and the bar of a 5 added. One could see the broken fibers of the paper on the outline of the curl, and the bar of the five lay across the top of the three and the top of the 5 behind it like a black lath tacked across two uprights.

The figure 3 had been changed to 5 so cunningly as to deceive the eye, but not to deceive the vast magnification of the crystal. The thing stood out big and crude like a carpenter's patch.

Gosford's face became expressionless like wood, his body rigid; then he stood up and faced the three men across the table.

"Quite so," he said in his vocuous English voice. "Marshall wrote a 3 by inadvertence and changed it. He borrowed my penknife to erase the figure."

My father and Lewis gasped like men who see a pened-in beast slip out through an unimagined passage. There was silence. Then suddenly, in the strained stillness of the room, old Doctor Gaekli laughed. Gosford lifted his long pink face, with its crooked beak bringing out the ugly mouth.

"Why do you laugh, my good man?" he said.

"I laugh," replied Gaekli, "because a figure 5 can have so many colors." And now my father and Lewis were no less astonished than Mr. Gosford.

"Colors," they said, for the changed figure in the will was black. "Why, yes," replied the old man, "it is very pretty."

He reached across the table and drew over Mr. Gosford's memorandum beside the will.

"You are progressive, sir," he went on: "you write in iron-nitrate ink. Just made, commercially, in this year of 'fifty-six by Mr. Stephens. But we write here as Marshall wrote in 'fifty-four, with log-wood."

He turned and fumbled in his little case of bottles.

"I carry a bit of acid for my people's indignations. It has other uses." He whipped out the stopper and his vital and dabbled Gosford's notes and Marshall's signature.

"See," he cried. "Your writing is blue, Mr. Gosford, and Marshall's red."

With an oath the strapped man struck at Gaekli's hand. The vital fell and cracked on the table. The hydrochloric acid spread out over Marshall's will. And under the

Miss Dolly Wise

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, woes, etiquette, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Dear Dolly—You give such good advice. I am coming to you to see if you can tell me what to do. I was married and my husband died and left me with three children; and like so many others, I married again. My new husband drinks, and when he is drinking he is so mean I can hardly stand him. I owned my own home when we were married and it was furnished and as some of the furniture has been replaced with new, he says what is here belongs to him. He makes a little over one hundred dollars a month and is buying a machine and pays over half of the one hundred dollars on it each month, but he says I run through with his money. I work just the same since we are married as I did before. I have done everything that is honest, but he has got on my nerves, so I don't know hardly what to do. I wouldn't care so much what he says to me. If he would only be good to the children. He doesn't whip them very much, but it is what he says to them and the way he says it that hurts.

WORRIED ONE.

Since the house is yours and you work to support yourself, I can't understand why you wanted to add a man to your family burdens. However, since you were foolish enough to take him, I would give him to understand that the house was mine, and if he did not behave himself and do better he could find another place to park his feet under the table at meal time. There is one thing that I would not put up with, and that is a drunken husband. The very next time he comes home drunk, give him his hat and coat and tell him to "beat it," and not come back until he has decided to quit drinking. Then, too, I would not let him abuse the children. Give him to understand you are the boss, and see that you are the boss.

Dear Dolly—I would like for you to print a recipe for smothering hearts.
YOUNG BRIDE.
I wouldn't smother anyone's heart on a bet.

Dear Dolly—Is it alright for a girl to exchange pictures with a boy with whom she is keeping steady company, or to exchange with a boy to whom she is engaged? Now, Dolly, I don't mean just anybody that asks for a date, but nice, respectable boys that treat a girl right. Please answer to settle an argument between a married couple.

MRS. S. H.

It is perfectly alright to give your picture to your intended husband, but I would not advise you to pass them around to other boys, even though they are perfectly nice young men. It might be all right to

One of the most distinctive social events of the season will be the public opening of the Girls Community Club on Saturday evening, December 16th, at eight o'clock. It is safe to say that the girls have planned a program with an interesting feature that has never before been seen in Portsmouth. Invitations already are at a premium, as the hall is limited and all the members of the club are clamoring for guest invitations to the club on that evening.

These new club rooms have been secured in the hall over the Lyric Theatre and Miss Mildred Fisher, in charge of girls activities for the Bureau of Community Service, is trying with might and main to complete the decorations before the opening. The club will have on this night, as its guest of honor, Renée Wilder Saville, Columbus, Sculptor, whose works are well known in art circles in New York and Boston, as well as in the middle west. Mr. Saville will inaugurate a studio talk, which will include the erection in clay of a life size portrait of one of Portsmouth's most respected citizens. The portrait will be sculptured on the platform, beginning with a shapeless mass of clay. From this clay the skilled fingers of Mr. Saville will model and complete the portrait bust. Mr. Saville's work in the west includes the Peace Memorial, soon to be erected at the State Capital in Columbus; the Pioneer Models to be erected upon the Broad street bridge in Columbus, as well as many of the busts at the Ohio State University, including Dr. Wm. O'xley Thompson, President of the University, and many others.

Several years ago, while in Boston, Mr. Saville completed a statuette of Mrs. Lowell Ames Norris, now of Portsmouth, which received favorable comment in Columbus, as well as in the east.

In addition to his peace-time activities, Mr. Saville played a very important part in the world war. In Paris at its outbreak, Mr. Saville immediately enlisted as an ambulance driver with the French troops. Later when his identity became known, he constructed some of the most important bits of camouflage on the western front. Mr. Saville created the camouflage trench which enabled the Allies to gain ground repeatedly, as well as to be on the alert for trench warfare without the apparent existence of outposts.

Special invitations have been extended to all the influential organizations in this city, and a special program is being arranged. Refreshments will be served.

Forty-five members and visitors assembled at the meeting of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of Trinity M. E. church at the home of Mrs. John T. Breece on Eighth street Tuesday afternoon, where they were entertained with a Christmas party by the officers and hostesses. This being their regular meeting day, a part of the afternoon was devoted to routine business and devotion, with Mrs. James Williams presiding. Mrs. J. L. Smith led the devotions. The annual Christmas offering was taken, the ladies responding generously.

A very interesting and educational program was in charge of the program leader, Mrs. Edgar Mann.

The first number was the roll call of members, each responding with the name of a missionary. Mrs. Gus McAdair, acting as postmistress, delivered mail to ladies whose names appeared on papers, letters and postcards. When opened and read, each contained information about the work of the society sent from the Cincinnati branch.

A current event taken from missionary papers and pasted on Chinese paper, donated by a Chinese family of this city, were passed and read by each guest.

Miss Louise Evans gave two piano selections, and Mrs. James B. Breece two vocal numbers, which were greatly appreciated.

The meeting adjourned and entered into the Christmas party. Mrs. James Williams and Mrs. Gus McAdair, invited the guests to the dining room, which was beautifully decorated with cedar, poinsettias and red candles.

Delicious plum pudding and coffee were served by the following aides in the dining room: Mrs. John Lutz, Mrs. John F. Dudley, Mrs. J. P. Smith, Mrs. George Irwin, Mrs. Edgar Mann, Mrs. Frank Appel, Mrs. James B. Breece, and the hostesses, Mrs. John T. Breece.

Mrs. Emma Arthur and Mrs. Elizabeth Lowry, oldest members of the society, presided at the coffee urn.

The next meeting will be held with Mrs. W. K. Dupre, on Park avenue, in January.

The Joseph Spencer Chapter D. A. R. will meet next Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Charles Spencer on Franklin avenue. The assistant hostesses will be Mrs. Marvin C. Clark, Miss Juliette Sileo and Miss Louise Dismore. The annual payment of dues will be received at this meeting.

John D. Ashley, who has been ill at his home, 428 Third street, is much better and was able to attend school yesterday.

Kellogg's Bran is delightful as cereal, sprinkled over any hot or cold food, or served in countless appetizing ways in baking and cooking. It makes the best sort of pancakes, muffins, raisin bread, macaroons, etc., you ever ate. And, each mouthful contributes to health! Kellogg's Bran works for you all the time! Your physician will recommend Kellogg's Bran for constipation.

A simply complexion or an offensive breath can both be overcome by the regular use of Kellogg's Bran, which is sold by grocers everywhere.

Adventures Of The Twins

BY OLIVE ROBERTS MARTON

NANCY and Nick went to Bluster Gust Land to help Mr. Sprinkle-Blow build a place to keep his new magical airplane. Bye and bye it was finished and the three of them jumped on the weatherman's magical umbrella and rode down to the tree-top where the green Wizard lived.

Sure enough, there was the airplane all ready. The Green Wizard had just finished it.

"Just in time! Just in time!" cried Sprinkle-Blow. "I've more orders for weather than Santa Claus gets notes at Christmas! I'm ever so much obliged, Green Wizard. Now if there's any little favor I can do for you, be sure to let me know."

"Well," answered the other fairly, thoughtfully. "You might be a bit careful of what kind of weather you send us this winter. I don't mind for myself, but the Meadow Folk and the Forest Folk and Orchard Folk don't like it too cold."

Wasn't that just like the kind of fellow? Not asking for a favor for himself, but remembering his friends! Mr. Sprinkle-Blow made a note in his notebook.

"I'll speak to Jack Frost about it," said he. "I'll have to let him know soon. You see, I have him locked up with the other Nuisance Fairies up there in the sky and he's fussing like everything. But I'll tell him to be very careful and not be so slippery. Gosh! Now, everybody, I must be getting along. I hear they need rain out west and I must go and see about it. Thank you all for everything."

"Bzzzz! Hmumum! Bzzzz!" Away went the little airplane, weatherman and all.

IMPRESSIVE SERVICES MARK GAME REFUGE DEDICATION

Bronze Tablet Is Unveiled

Paying tribute to the great outdoor sportsman, the late Theodore Roosevelt, who had a prominent part in the establishment of this future storehouse of nature's decreasing resources, speakers prominent in the affairs of Ohio yesterday afternoon took part in the dedication of the Roosevelt Game Preserve on the West Side.

A large crowd of state officials, sportsmen, scientists, educators and prominent citizens of this city and county gathered at the entrance to the Game Preserve to take part in the exercises that marked the dedication of the 15,000 acre tract that is being filled with the same kind of wild game that years ago were plentiful in that region. Five thousand additional acres of hill and waste land in the same section are to be used for reforestation and experimental work by the state, giving the state a 20,000 acre tract in Scioto county.

The unveiling of the stone monument that bears the bronze tablet of dedication followed the completion of the address by Governor Harry L. Davis, who followed other notables who made short speeches in keeping with the occasion.

To Miss Lucile Seth, daughter of Oscar Seth, Scioto Trail, was given the honor of drawing the large American flag which veiled the tablet. Mrs. Howard Harsha of this city assisted in the unveiling ceremonies.

L. J. Taber, Director of Agriculture in the Governor's cabinet, presided as chairman of ceremonies and in his remarks spoke of Theodore Roosevelt's service to his country.

The great Roosevelt, statesman, patriot, crusader, and sportsman, rendered signal service to his country in many manners," he said, "but his most signal service was in his awakening in the American conscience the necessity of preserving our national resources. In the foundation of this Game Preserve, a great service has been rendered to the lovers of the outdoors, and generations to come will be able to enjoy it."

Mr. Taber introduced former Mayor I. S. Myers of Akron, president of the League of Ohio Sportsmen, and member of the national commission on game and fisheries in connection with the drafting of various treaties and international agreements, a big game hunter and sportsman of international repute.

Game Conservation and Reforestation

Myers, in his address said: "We have been contemplating such a Preserve as this and working for its establishment for a great many years, and it is indeed with pleasure that the Sportsmen of Ohio come to this dedication. The establishment of this Preserve is the first real step towards conserving the wild life of the country. It is, in addition to this, the beginning of reforestation, which, as you all know, means more rainfall, which will result in bigger and better crops, and the greater prosperity of the state and nation.

"This Game Preserve is only the beginning. There are thousands of acres of much waste lands in the various counties of the state, and it would be of great benefit if such a preserve could be established in every county."

"Let the youth of Ohio learn the lessons of the Great Out of Doors, and we can abolish the reformatories and the Houses of Correction."

Baxter Speaks
A. C. Baxter, chief of the Fish and Game Division, was the next speaker. "This Preserve," he said, "is the fulfillment of great ambition. It has meant hard work, but it will mean the salvation of Ohio wild life. It is yours, to enjoy for years to come."

President William Oxley Thompson of Ohio State University was called upon by Chairman Taber. With the exception of a few brief remarks, in which he deplored that he had been called upon, saying that he was "sorry to be made so prominent," since he was "simply a citizen," he declined to make a speech.

Governor Davis then gave his address which was carried in last night's Times.

Crowd Pays Tribute.
At this juncture Miss Seth, drew the flag which veiled the tablet, and the crowd stood, with bared heads, before the monument.

Departing from his prepared address, Governor Davis expressed his appreciation of the services of Senator J. F. Atwood and Representative George S. Matthews in assisting in furthering the legislation which provided for the purchasing of the lands in the Preserve.

Movies Taken
Moving picture men, representing the Selznick, Pathe, International and Service Film companies were present and "shot" considerable footage for the news weeklies. Special pictures were also taken for the use of the Fish and Game Division, under the direction of J. W. Stuber.

When the movie men were busy "shooting" a picture of the Governor, Mr. Taber, Mr. Matthews and other prominent men, the Governor called to a little boy who was standing nearby, wistful-eyed, and took him into the picture, an event to be remembered as long as he lives, no doubt.

Have Dinner At Lodge
Following the ceremonies, Governor Davis and his party motored to Game Protector Frank Voorhees' lodge on the Preserve, where a delightful dinner was enjoyed by about fifty people. Caterer Jake Pfau served the meal.

At the conclusion of the dinner, Governor Davis and his party left immediately for Columbus.

Many Notables Here

Among the distinguished guests, besides those mentioned above were: Senator J. F. Atwood, Columbus; Geo. Bear, Cincinnati, president of the S. W. Ohio Fish and Game Protection Association; Prof. Raymond Osborn of the Ohio State University faculty; Richard Harburger, publicity man from Columbus; John Kaiser, editor of the Marietta Register-Leader, and Chairman of the Board of Trustees of Ohio State University; Dr. T. C. & O. Flyer In Wreck; One Killed

MONTGOMERY, W. Va., Dec. 6.—One trainman was killed and another injured seriously today near Gauley Bridge, West Virginia, when Chesapeake and Ohio passenger train No. 4, east bound from Cincinnati to Washington struck a rock. No passengers were hurt, railroad reports said.

Fireman Robert Lushbaugh of Hinton, W. Va., is the dead man. Engineer Harvey Temple of Huntington was killed.

The engine, baggage car and two coaches left the rails and went over an embankment, the locomotive and a section of the baggage car landing in New River. The Pullman cars were not derailed.

Trains will be held up until the wreckage is cleared from the track by a crew sent out from Handier. Train No. 4, carried passengers from the Louisville division for New York.

No. 4 is the fast flyer from Cincinnati to Washington and leaves South Portsmouth daily at 12:15 a. m.

P. H. S. Football Squad Entertained By Exchange Club

Over sport, the fighting spirit, the value of team work, and the importance of the exchange club last evening when the club had as guests the entire football squad of the Portsmouth High School. As was pointed out by Russell McCurdy the squad was present as guests of the club not because of the victories they won but because of the spirit they displayed, and the main way in which they played the game, and gave the best they had to the team.

The evening got a good start with the serving of a turkey dinner with all the trimmings by the Mary Louise restaurant. When nothing was left but a few bones to tell where the turkey had been, President W. H. Harsha of the Exchange club welcomed the football squad, and then turned the meeting over to "Frosty" Williams, who pointed out that a second Clarence DeWitt was spoiled when a career as a "patent manufacturer" was decided upon. Frosty had a good line of jokes, and kept the meeting from lagging, so that the time to adjourn to the Sun Theatre where the football boys were guests of the management arrived all too soon.

Of course the first speaker of the evening was Coach H. H. Eccles. He praised the fighting spirit of the team, a point which had been previously made by Mr. Williams, and then gave a little inside history as to the kind of boys that composed the squad. "Perhaps you noticed that the boys all gathered together and took off their headgear just before each game started," he said. "Possibly you thought they were holding some sort of conference, but what they really were doing was listening to a word of prayer before they entered the contest. It was boys who respect and respond to such influences that composed the football squad."

Mr. Eccles then stressed the importance of the people getting behind the team, and said it was the knowledge that the citizens in general were taking an interest and standing behind the team that influenced them to give their best, that helped to create the fighting spirit. In closing Mr. Eccles urged that all get behind the proposed athletic field.

Capt. Thomas Brock expressed the appreciation of the boys for the manner in which the people of the city had gotten behind them, and made a splendid talk on what athletics do for boys. He pointed out that football taught the importance of team work, of fair dealing, of sticking to anything, and of doing one's best. Speaking for next year he said that if the people of Portsmouth stood behind the team as they had this year a winning combination was assured.

Frank Hawkins, of the Jack Ball stock company, at the Sun Theatre, gave an interesting talk on "The Stage" and closed with an invitation to the players to come to see the performance of "The Brat," an invitation that was enthusiastically accepted by all.

Russell K. McCurdy in his short talk said he was in a congratulatory frame of mind, and he congratulated Coach Eccles and the team. He told the guests that the club was proud of them, was interested in them and wanted to uphold the spirit of giving their best which had characterized the team this year.

A number of songs by Alex Macintosh came next and was one of the features of the evening.

Acting Capt. Willard Ellsesser next made a neat speech, complimenting Coach Eccles and the team. One of the most enjoyable parts of the program came next, the experiences of nine years of football by Graves Williams. He told of the games in which he had participated, including a description of the trip to California in 1917 to play at Los Angeles.

Short talks were then made by Prof. Appel and Coach McComb, after which came a surprise in the way of the presentation of a silver loving cup to Graves and Forest Williams who served as officials at the games this season. The presentation speech was made by Coach Eccles, who told how the squad appreciated what the officials had done. It was a fitting climax to a most enjoyable evening.

The squad and most of the Exchange members went directly from the club rooms to the Sun.

Why Property Is High In Piketon

PIKETON, Dec. 6.—Strangers coming to Piketon to buy property have often wondered at the high prices asked by property owners, which in many cases are as high as prices asked for city property. The two chief reasons for the high price of real estate in Piketon are probably the high rate of taxation which is prevalent here and the fact that most of the people in Piketon own their homes and do not care to sell their property unless they can get a price far in excess of the actual value of the property. Vacant lots which measure 62 ft. by 150 ft. command prices ranging from $300 to $500, depending on the location. The following figures will probably throw some light on why Piketon property is so high and hard to obtain. According to the 1920 census the population of Piketon is 608 people with approximately 180 families. Of the 180 families 123 or 71 percent of the families own their homes and 52 families or 29 percent are renters. Of the 52 homes that are occupied by renters 46 are owned by local capital and six by foreign. The above figures are proof that Piketon is a village of thrifty, home-loving people where, as Longfellow says in his description of Grande Terre, "there the richest are poor and the poor live in abundance."

Easy To Darken Your Gray Hair

You Can Bring Back Color and Lustre With Sage Tea and Sulphur.

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture though, at home is messy and troublesome. At little cost you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients called "Wreth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wreth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look years younger.

Fortunately none of the occupants of the machine were injured, but the car was considerably damaged.

Sulphur Clears Rough, Red Skin

Face, Neck and Arms Easily Made Smooth, Says Specialist

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying a little Menhaden Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation begins at once to soothe irritated skin and heal eruptions such as rash, pimples and ring worm.

It seldom fails to remove the torment and disfigurement, and you do not have to wait for relief from embarrassment. Improvement quickly shows. Sufferers from skin trouble should obtain a small jar of Menhaden Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like cold cream.—Advertisement.

"CHIROPRACTIC REMOVES THE CAUSE OF DISEASE"

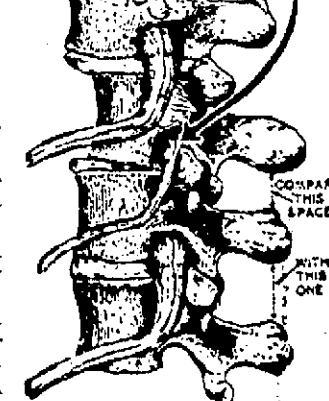

What brings health? Not the treating of effects, but the removing of the CAUSE of disease, brings health.

Dr. Alfred Walton, founder of the Essex County Hospital, indorses Chiropactic because it is the only method which removes the cause of disease; and thousands of men and women throughout the country are living testimonials to the benefits they have experienced after taking Spinal Adjustments.

Drugsadden pain, but they cannot remove the cause of the pain; surgery may cut out a diseased part of the body, but it cannot remove that which caused the diseased condition. The cause of abnormal condition—sickness, weakness, distortion—is nerve pressure somewhere between the brain and the rest of the body. In 95 per cent of cases nerve pressure is found at the spine, where one or more vertebrae have become slightly misaligned, as shown in spinal cut.

Consider the fact that untold numbers of people have suffered with the same ailments you have, and have found relief through Chiropactic, and you will see why you should at least investigate. Come to our office now, before your trouble has gone too far.

Sewer Problems Discussed; No Action Taken

Impetus was given to the plan to give the city extensive sewer improvements at the special caucus of City Council and a considerable number of citizens interested in the proposition met Tuesday evening in Council chamber and while no definite action was taken the discussion promises to lead to an early solution of the city's sewer problems, especially in respect to Lawson Run, which is first on council's improvement program.

The sewer situation was discussed in detail and as a result city officials now no doubt have a better understanding of what course they must pursue in reference to the projects.

Consider Two Plans
It was plainly pointed out that much must follow and make the necessary improvement of Lawson Run in accordance with one of two plans, the first, which has been approved by the state health department, providing for the construction of a sanitary sewer to carry the sewage flow at an estimated cost of $100,000 and the second, designated as alternate A, which calls for the building of a combination sewer, to handle both the sewage and storm water at an approximate cost of $150,000.

It was generally conceded on all sides that the larger conduit would be the most desirable as the building of such a sewer would result in the stream being enclosed completely, thus removing an "eye-sore" from the very heart of the city besides beautifying the district and adding materially to the tax duplicate. The added cost of the larger sewer appears to be the stumbling block as some city officials including Mayor Gubelman, are opposed to the city assuming the entire burden or any in excess of the expense of constructing the smaller sewer to handle the sanitary wastes of the territory. They declare that the property drainage area which would be benefited by the construction of the proposed combination sewer should pay the added expense and some plan may be worked out to this end, as it was stated that under the law the property so benefited may be assessed for the improvement.

To Name Committee
With this in mind Judge Osborn, who acted as chairman in the absence of President Al. Weghorst, was authorized to name a committee to confer with the sanitary engineers and city solicitor in regard to establishing sewer districts throughout the city for the purpose of making assessments to pay for proposed sewer improvements in the future.

C. C. Horr, Charles Whitte and Edward Westphal were appointed as members of the committee and they will confer with the sanitary engineer while he is in the city.
G. A. Greeley of the firm of Peavey, Greeley & Hanson, Chicago sanitary experts, who prepared the plans for the sewer improvements, outlined in a brief talk the progress of the work, explaining that the bulk of the detail or working plans are now complete and in the hands of the service director and state department of health, these including Lawson Run-Scioto Trail, Hubert Run, Mill street extension, Jefferson street and Scioto-ville with sewage treatment plant so as to protect the water supply there.

Council Must Decide
He stated that consideration had been given to the building of the combination or larger sewer in the plans prepared for Lawson Run, one providing for cleaning the sewage and the other to handle both the storm water and sewage in the district. He explained that bids may be taken either way or both, but that it was a question which rests with the City Council to decide which project is desired.

W. H. Ditto, of the state department of health, was the next speaker and he clearly stated the position of his department in reference to the proposition. At the onset he called attention to the law which gives the state department the power to issue an order requiring the city to correct pollution of a stream and declared there was little doubt but that such an order will be issued following a special meeting of the Public Health Council, Department of Health, which will be held in Columbus next Friday to consider the finding of the director of health in accordance with the provisions of Section 1250 of the General Code based upon an investigation and report by state sanitary engineers. The finding is to the effect "that the sewage from the city of Portsmouth discharged into Lawson Run and its tributaries has so corrupted the water courses as to give rise to foul and noxious odors and to conditions detrimental to health and comfort."

Notified of Hearing
City officials including council and board of health, have been notified of the hearing and authorized representatives of the city will probably be present when they will be given an opportunity to be heard in reference to the advisability of adopting an order requiring the city to install works, or means for collecting and disposing of sewage from the Lawson Run drainage area in a manner to correct and prevent the pollution of the stream and its tributaries.

Mr. Ditto explained that after such an order is issued the city is empowered to issue emergency bonds to a maximum of three percent of the tax duplicate without ratification by the electors to raise funds to defray the expense of the improvement, in other words, the state department tells council what it must do and places in the hands of council funds which could not be secured in any other way, Mr. Ditto said, but he made it plain that the department would not order only necessary work to correct the pollution of the stream. He then told of definite move of the federal government toward cleaning up the Ohio river, calling attention that many cities depend on the stream for their water supply and that pollution of the stream was increasing each year, which, he asserted, means sewage treatment in all cities along the river in the course of a few years.

Would Improve Property
The "big sewer" would be a vast property improvement, he said, but stated that separate sewer construction was regarded as better engineering and gave it his opinion that the small sewer to carry the sanitary wastes will ultimately have to be built anyway to conform with the government's plan to prevent pollution of the Ohio river. He further stated that "in order to relieve the nuisance conditions now prevailing in Lawson Run, it will be necessary to construct sewerage to intercept and to convey the sewage to a proper point of disposal. An intercepting sanitary sewer extending from an existing combined sewer outlet at Seventeenth street to the Ohio river, a distance of approximately one and one-fourth miles, would accomplish this result. The construction of a combined sewer from Seventeenth street to the river would also accomplish the same result but at an additional expense."

Discussed Over 30 Years
R. B. Hope, 1224 High street, complained of unsanitary conditions due to the Lawson Run sewer and urged that the council start some action soon.
Judge Osborn, in his remarks, stated that the question of sewerage was one which had been under discussion for over thirty years, and urged that the matter be given careful consideration and much study on the part of members of council, and that they look to the future in providing sewerage facilities.

The matter of a sewerage disposal plant was also brought up, and Mr. Ditto expressed the opinion that such a plant would have to be installed in Portsmouth before many years, as he said, the program of the government in ridding the Ohio river of pollution will make this necessary.

Charles F. Bard of Jackson street, addressed the meeting regarding the matter and urged immediate action. "I have been fighting for better sewerage arrangements for years," he said, "and have even brought suit against the city, seeking relief. Instead of getting better," he said, "they are getting worse. We need to stop parrying and build the sewer."

Councilman Horr stated, "I'm for the big sewer, because I believe it will be just a question of time till we will build the big one, even if we do build the small one now."

Member Whitte and other members asked several questions of the visiting engineer.

Misses Cows; Car Swerves Off Road

Charles Davis of Lucasville figured in an automobile accident, but was not badly hurt when his machine skidded off the Scioto Trail four miles north of the city and turned over. He swerved his machine sharply to avoid hitting several cows in the road and when he lost control of it the car plunged off the road and turned over. It was considerably damaged.

Salts Fine For Aching Kidneys

Eating too Much Meat May Clog Kidneys, then the Back Hurts

Most folks forget that the kidneys like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then "act fine." This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also helps to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent drink which everybody should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble.—Advertisement.

Sisters Of Charity Have Proven The Value Of Father John's Medicine

Sisters in Charge of Children's Home "Have Used It With Great Success For Coughs and Colds"

At the Children's Home in Newburyport, Mass., there is an average of sixty children under the loving care of the Sisters of Charity.

In a recent signed statement the Sister in charge said: "We cheerfully endorse Father John's Medicine because in our Home it has become indispensable. We use it not only for coughs and colds but also as a builder. We tell our friends that we would not be without it. We have used it with great success and find it to have no equal as a builder."

(Signed) The Home for Destitute Children, Sisters of Charity, Newburyport, Mass.

In a great many institutions of a similar character throughout the country, Father John's Medicine is what the nurses in charge depend upon to keep the children well and strong. They know that it is entirely safe because it is free from alcohol and dangerous drugs.

Many similar letters of endorsement have been received from homes, hospitals and institutions, and the names and copies of the letters will be sent on request.

Father John's Medicine is a doctor's prescription, and is pure and wholesome. It has had more than sixty-seven years' success for colds, throat troubles and as a tonic and body builder.—advertisement.

BAESMAN'S CRACK FLOOR SQUAD OPEN BASKETBALL SEASON IN Ironton THIS EVENING

Will Face A Strong Team

Baesman's Selects of this city open their 1922-23 season this evening when they play the Ironton Selects at Ironton. The game to be staged in the new high school gym which is one of the biggest and best equipped in this section of the state.

Baesman and his Selects have been working out for several weeks and are in tip-top shape with Doll and Edwards still on the forward positions, with Baesman at center, Kendall and Barber are the guards with Baesman fighting for one of the guard positions.

Kent and Portner who have played guard in past seasons are not with the team this season and it is likely that Baesman and Kendall will alternate at one guard position while Barber holds down the other position at guard. The trip tonight will be made with about fifteen players, a number of the Junior Selects to make the trip. Some of them may get a chance to show their ability should the Selects run up a big score early in the contest.

The Ironton Selects is a team composed of the best floor stars in the Ironton city. Former high school stars compose the team. The St. Joseph Selects represented Ironton in the semi-final night last year and two or three of these players are on the new Selects five which will represent Ironton this year.

Baesman's Selects are going into the game determined to give the Ironton team a stiff setback but they are not counting on doing it without a hard and stiff fight on their hands. Ironton is said to have obtained the best material possible in this section for this game and it would not surprise the Selects to find some strangers in the lineup.

Ace Club To Play Holy Redeemer Hi

Curley Lavinder, acting coach, is fast rounding into form for the big home season curtain raiser scheduled for eight o'clock Saturday evening in the P. H. S. gym. At this time the Aces will clash with the speedy aggregation of the Holy Redeemer Hi.

It will be the first big contest of the year in this city and the many local devotees of the greatest indoor sport in the world will no doubt flock to the high school court in large numbers to witness the battle.

The Ace Club is busy perfecting its scoring machinery and Captain Lavinder is fortifying and strengthening in every possible way his guarding combination which appeared in the recent conflict with the Winchester Cubs to be the only weak spot which needed immediate attention.

FANS HAPPY OVER COLGATE BOOKING

Football enthusiasts throughout the Buckeye State will be pleased to learn that State next fall will have a real inter-sectional game when it stacks up against the strong Colgate team from the East. This is the clever that invariably upsets Yale and beats most of the so-called invincible teams in the East. The acquisition of Colgate to State's schedule certainly reinforces it.

Claim Tanks Dodging Wellston Team

The Wellston Sentinel says: That the Ironton Tanks are dodging a game with the Wellston team, is easily proven by the clipping taken from the Ironton Register of Monday, written by the star sporting editor of that publication. They demand a sixty-four division, on their own lot, it is supposed with gamblers standing on the lines to protect things who interfere and permit double teaming on players and visitors if they object. The facts are the Tanks are afraid to meet the Wellston team on neutral territory away from their own crowd of "strong arms" and it is taking a lot of editorial bemoaning of the teams of Portsmouth and this city made up of clean sportsmen to erect for them a reputation. But here is what the sporting editor says which has all the marks of sidestepping a contest to be played under fair and clean sporting conditions under which the local team can kick them out of their heels: "Another burning question is whether Wellston is going to get a game with the Tanks. Remember they got one last season and got drubbing as well. If the Big Red is able to land the West Side for next Sunday we're willing to pass up few of these other minor league offers. The only way the locals would play Wellston anyhow, would be on a 60-40 division of the gate receipts."

SOMETHING OUGHT TO BE DONE

THE modest and fashion makers of the world are never happy unless they can be doing something to shock the sensibilities of those with a trace of modesty in their makeup. Once it was peckaboo waists. Then it was ankles, and when ankles palled it was legs, and finally knees. Knees have gone out, and for a while it looked as if we were for once to have a costume to which the squeamish could not object.

But the fashion makers, who must be in league with the immoral forces of the world did not stay moral long. They have found a new way to shock the world, and they propose to put it into effect at once! It isn't legs and it isn't shoulders which are to be exposed to the gaze of a breathless world, but—horror of horrors—ears!

This is the ultimate, box-score limit. Or at least we thought it was until we read the next line. The next line says that the lobe of the naked ear will be colored a delicate pink! What is the rouging of the knee compared to this brazen suggestion?

If the forces of righteousness in this country have the vigor they ought to have, they will nip this outrageous suggestion in the bud. We stood for knees, but surely we shall not have to stand for ears.

A STATESMAN'S PRINCIPLE

"NEVER be afraid," said Gladstone, "to tell people what they already know." Those who have succeeded in positions of leadership will accede to the little recognized fact that the highest truths will always bear unlimited telling.

There are times when men with a talent genuine but unrecognized modestly refrain from speech under the impression that it might be termed "can't." They fail to realize that, in the first place, truth never grows stale and, in the second, that the medium through which it is told, men's personalities, is never twice the same. The beauty of truth lies in its recurring freshness. Repetition is a necessity, not a pitfall. If the theme upon which a man bases his teachings grows wearisome to himself or to those who hear him, then the probabilities are that he has descended to trivialities. The basic truths instead of growing stale have the faculty of constantly opening new avenues of thought and reflection to those who consider them.

Gladstone was an ardent exponent of this saying. His principles were simple, but a lifetime was not long enough for him to exhaust his exposition of them. That he was the greatest statesman of his time is ample testimony to the correctness of his policy.

EDUCATION IN MONEY TERMS

LYMAN ABBOTT tells of the unusual way by which he came to go to college. His father, instead of letting the boy's going be taken as a matter of course, put it up to him as a real issue. Lyman was given the choice of the cost of a college education plus the interest accrued at the end of four years, and the course itself.

It was suggested that the boy might go into business with the money, but the relative advantages and difficulties of a professional career and of a business career were also mentioned. The boy asked for advice. He received none, but was told to think it over for two or three days and decide for himself. At the end of that time, Lyman went to his father with his decision to take an education. The elder Mr. Abbott replied, "I am very glad. I think it is an excellent plan for a boy to go to college, but a very poor plan for a boy to be sent."

If more boys were sent to school under such circumstances, there would probably be less enthusiasm than exists at present, in missing classes, lectures and the like. "Throughout my college day I realized that I was spending my own good money for my education, and I determined to get my money's worth," says Abbott. The matter was viewed in the light of a business proposition, and the college education rose proportionately in the boy's esteem.

New York-Day-By-Day

BY O. O. MONTGOMERY

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—Down a side street not far from where Broadway glitters with its thousand lamps is a row of squalid hotels. There is an evil air, an unsavory glamour about their grimy lobbies. Guests peer up and down before fitting into the elevator shafts.

Broad jokes are consumed with a Babylonian relish. There are men who use lip-sticks. Women skilled in lifting an eyebrow or tossing a wink from doorways. Inane ditties that do not gloss the intimate details ring in the halls.

It is a section of life, unspeakably vile. The gossip is about burlesque, boozing, brawls, police courts and liaisons. Yet it is in a room in one of these hotels that a drama in real life was enacted that outshines the deeds that turn on the tears in the bot-gosseling plays.

The story was told to me by a lieutenant of police. He was sent there to smoke out a drug peddler—a shifty young fellow with a police record. He found him. The youth pleaded for an hour. He was on his way to a train to meet his mother. His earnestness won and the lieutenant went with him.

They met a little sweet-faced old lady who was led from the coach by a porter. She was blind. It was an affectionate, tearful meeting and the three went back to the hotel room together and dinner was ordered. The lieutenant posed as the son's spiritual adviser.

He had come from a deeply religious family and before the first bit the mother said: "Son, I should like to hear you pray." And he bowed his head and said grace. There was talk of his job at the bank, his career, and the sudden call he had to go to Europe.

He was leaving in the morning and so she must go to the home of friends that night. They took her there and then he was taken to a police cell, a flood of vile epithets pouring from his lips.

And after the tale was told I wondered if the boy had been turned over to his mother, he would have gone straight.

Nightly on Broadway there is a crew of "light spotters" who walk up and down looking at the myriad lights and taking notes. It is their job to find dead bulbs and report them so that they may be repaired the next day. Their patrol includes the section between Herald Square and Columbus Circle.

Grace George is appearing in a play just now that has only two others in the cast—Norman Trevor and Robert Warwick. It is the smallest cast that has ever appeared in a four act play. Of course, it concerns the triangle and is very talky. It is reported that one playwright is now working on a play that has only one actor. That will indeed be a theatrical achievement.

Chance to Profit

Rafferty, of the Old Sod, and MacPherson, a Scot, were miners together. One day Rafferty accidentally emptied his pipe on a keg of powder and when he came down it was on the installment plan. Mac's grief was genuine, but finally he dried his tears and went off to notify Mrs. Rafferty.

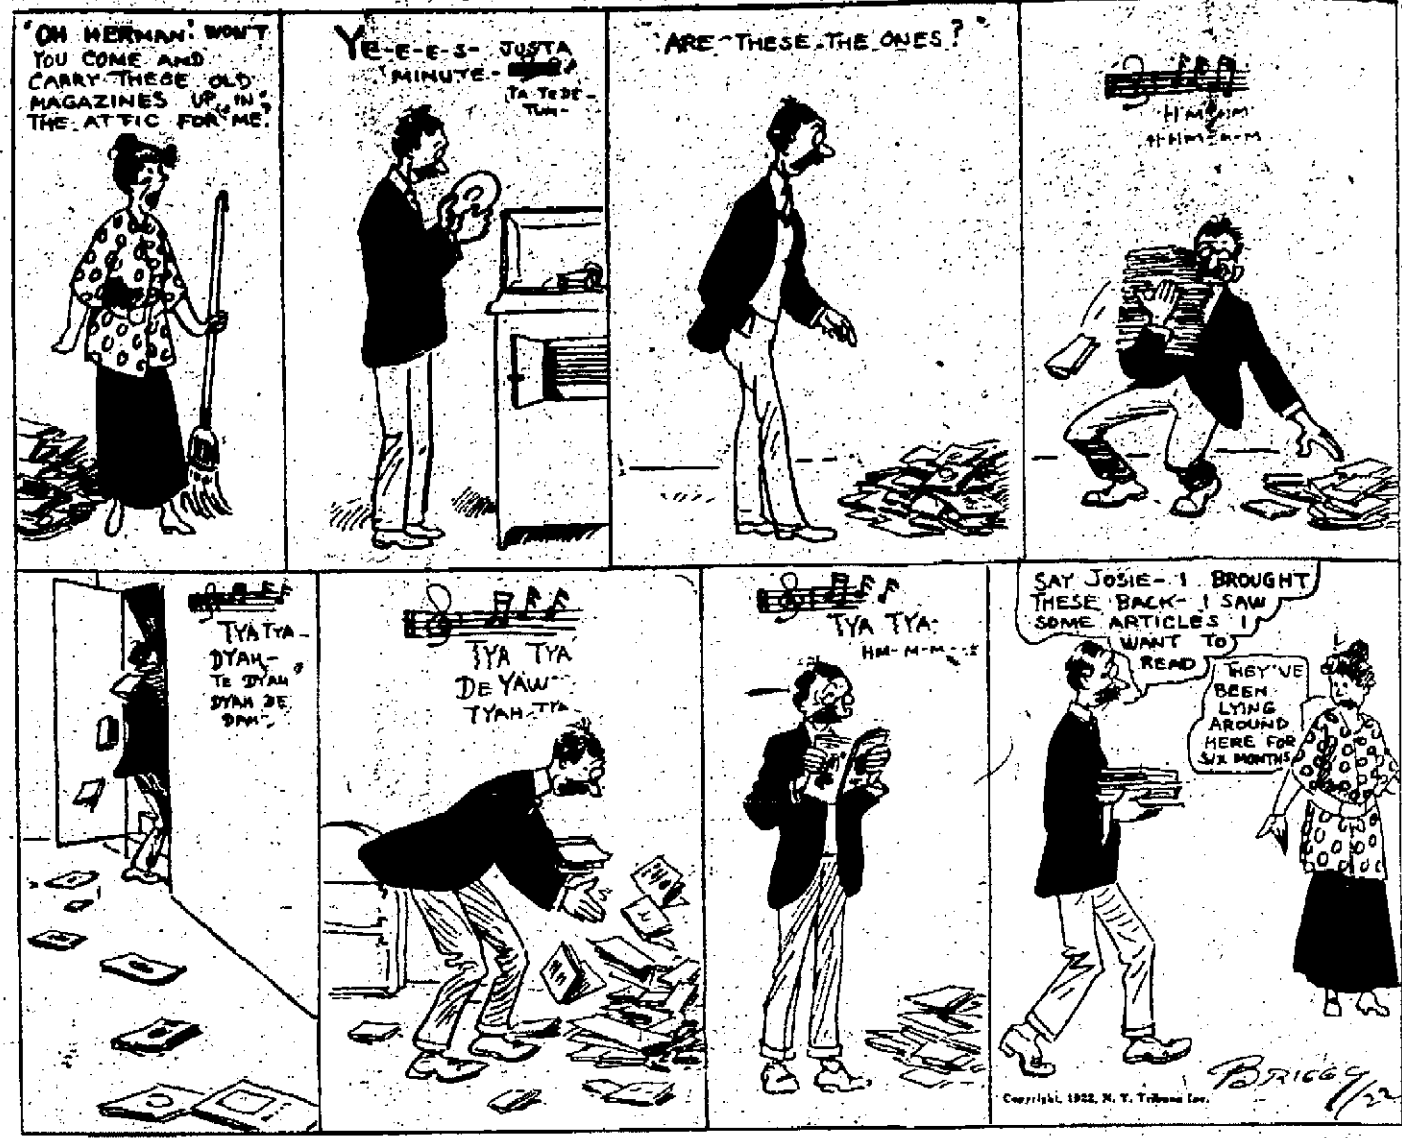

"Is this the Widow Rafferty?" he asked when a woman appeared at the door.

"This Mrs. Rafferty I am, but no Widow Rafferty," she snapped.

A businesslike gleam came into MacPherson's eye.

"An' how much will ye bet?" he demanded.

A Question of Dollars and Cents

A dollar and a penny met. The penny had a bright, clean face, but the dollar was dirty but proud.

"You think you are gold, but you are only cheap brass," said the dollar.

The penny replied, "I am what I am and claim to be no more."

The dollar swelled up with pride, and said: "I am patriotic. I am trustworthy. I have the emblem of liberty on my bosom, and the United States Government has placed these words on me, 'In God We Trust.'"

After a little doubt the penny answered: "I grant you all that, but I go to church oftener than you do."

Case for an Expert

Mr. Swivel was much perturbed to find that the three pounds of meat which he had purchased for dinner had mysteriously disappeared. His wife, aiding in the search and noticing what she took to be a guilty look on the face of the family cat, pointed to it, and said:

"There's the meat."

"Why, no," objected Swivel, "that little thing couldn't get away with three pounds of meat. Still, let's weigh her and find out."

They did so. The scales registered an even three pounds.

"Yes," he admitted in puzzled tones, "there's the meat all right, but where's the cat?"

"No," he said, "I want a comb for a stout man with rubber teeth."
